Washington finds excess baggage on its bands in the person of "Nig" Clarke, the catcher who used to pashime for the Naps and the Browns Bob Hedges notified Griffith that the erratic backstop was Washington's property. Griffith will appeal to the national commission. He says he did not claim Clarke at the waiver price; that Hedges had tried unsuccessfully a number of times to saddle off his holdeut at from $2500 to $4000. Griff says he told the Brown owner that he would go no stronger than the waiver price. Hedges, he claims, concluded the business negotiations single handed.

The fact that baseball managers are The fact that baseball managers are leary of "bad actors" is shon in the attitude of all the majors in reference to "Nig" Clarke. A few years ago Clarke was considered as one of the best backstops in the American league. Cleveland passed him in because he would not take care of himself. He had a bad season with the Browns in 1911. Clarke is a young fellow who would last a good many years if he would only beliavs.

takes on Joe Rivers for the July 4 mill. of which much has been talked.

Our eastern brothers and dope peddiers have taken the stand that little Adolph is lining up a soft one for himself. That is because they know nothing of Rivers

Rivers is the biggest card on the Pacific slope today who attll remains outside the championship ranks. By a freak of fortune Johnny Kilbane snapped the knockout on Riverssomething be never ought to have done, and could not have done, but for Rivers' carelessness-and that is all that keeps Rivers from being the featherweight kingpin today, for he would have beaten Attell and would have done it more decisively than Kil-

Jack London used Rivers as the main character in one of his inimitable prize ring stories, relating in fiction form the fight between Dunny Webster and Rivers, which, by the way, was the first fight that brought Rivers into prominence and marked indelibly the last of Webster as a big money fighter. money fighter.

Little Danny never had an idea in the world that he was stacking up against anything out of the ordinary in Rivers. Rivers had been a "prelim" man about Los Angeles for several years and while he had beaten Fran-kie Sullivan in nine rounds, none had an idea that he was going to amount to anything, as it is an American ring custom to credit right away a fighter. Wolgast isn't going to meet any the from the ground up and is one of the equipment.

Those Who Claim Otherwise Do So Because They Do Not Know of the Ability of the Young Mexican Fighter.

Adhering to his plan to find the "streak" in Rivers at the outset, with the sound of the bell Webster lesped like a tiger across the ring, hoping to catch Rivers off his guard and overwhelm him.

Several thousand of us who saw that battle won't forget those few moments. Webster was on Rivers like a wild cat swinging right and left. Suddenly out of the chaos Webster shot and landed with a thud full length on the floor. He slayed there for the count of eight.

Prom then on Webster was a beaten man and he took one of the worst wallopings ever handed to a fighter on the coast, until Rivers slipped it over in the thirteenth. At times Webster showed signs of recuperating and he felt in his heart that he ought to win, which helped a lot. But there was no doubting that Rivers had the battle won from the first five seconds of it.

Thereafter Rivers won every fight and best some good men until he carelessly allowed Kilbane to reach him flush on the faw with a punch which did not seem to carry a knockout in it, but it did. Before that Rivers had been given a decision over ers had been given a decision over Kilbane by Charlie Eyton.

It ought to be a grand little shooting match when it comes off, as son Joe Rivers for the July 4 mill. The proof of swarthy skin with a "yellow" physically best looking men in the ring. It ought to be a grand little shooting match when it comes off, as shooting match when it comes of the Rivers came into the ring, quietly, almost unsoticed. Webster entered with an evation and took a full five minutes in shaking hands with his friends about the ringside. Webster had bet his whole end on himself and had to put up 10 to 6, too, as he was an odds on favorite. Shooting match when it comes on, as Rivers is naturally a 132 pounder rather than a feather having grown with the Wolgast stacks up as the log-like Wolgast stacks up as the log-like Country at 122 pounds who can make the Michigan German go any faster than will Rivers.

McFarland led so easily all the way that many thought he could have scored a knockout, but he appeared to hold back to allow Hogan to stay 16 rounds. The Chicago man landed enough blows to knock out six men if he had used more steam, but he seemed to delight in tantalizing Hogan without allowing him more than two or three clean blows.

Hogan weighed in at the ringside at 127 pounds, a pound heavier than McFarland leading with two lefts to the face and an attempt at a right swing which missed and sent McFhrland to the floor by the force of his own blows, but he was up instantly.

Gev. William C. McDonald, of New Mexico, will have a thing or two or three to say himself about New Mexico as the sits for the Johnson-Flynn widely postered encounter. The governor is attending the Cattlemen's convention here now and took occasion to express explicitly his views concerning the proposed mill.

THE GOVERNMENT AT WORK

O you know how the United States government, the greatest single organization of the kind on earth, conducts the stupendous enterprise in which you are an equal partner? Do you know how half a million officers of the Federal government each year collect and expend a billion dollars of your money on your account and in your behalf? If you wish to know all about these things, get a copy of the new book "The American Government," by Frederic J. Haskin. It is being distributed by this newspaper FOR THE MERE COST OF PRODUCTION AND HANDLING. Its facts are vouched for by the highest officials in the government and its interest is attested by hundreds of thousands of readers.

This is the book that shows Uncle Sam at work: how he does all sorts of things from constructing battleships to building scales that will turn with the weight of a millionth part of a grain; from conducting the affairs of international diplomacy to making maps; from coining money to delivering mail; from feeding hogs to making thermometers that will register the heat of man's face five miles away.

It is a book full of solid information, but there isn't a dull page in it. See the coupon elsewhere in this issue for details of how to get this book.
